Head, Litigation, Restructuring & insolvency

Constantinos Klissouras heads the firm's disputes and restructuring team, specializing in complex civil and commercial litigation and arbitration, finance, and domestic and cross-border restructuring and insolvency.

He has extensive experience with cross border disputes and proceedings, and acts for domestic and foreign financial institutions and industrials from a variety of sectors in cross border and domestic litigation and arbitration, contentious and non-contentious matters involving distressed, leveraged and structured finance, insolvency and restructuring, creditor take-overs, procurement and construction, fraud, and general commercial disputes. He has advised financial and strategic investors in respect of Greek privatization assets and businesses, and GGB holders on the Greek PSI and the legal implications of the Greek sovereign debt restructuring.

He has authored and co-authored in English on finance, restructuring and insolvency, including Greek insolvency law in the Collier International Business Insolvency Guide, Matthew Bender/Lexis-Nexis (rel. 2004 ff), security interests (CILS - Oceana Publications 2006), cash pooling (GLB, 2012), and the HR Privatization Programme (Law and Financial Markets Review, 2012), and is a Vice Chairman of the Section on Insolvency, Restructuring and Creditors' Rights Committee of the International Bar Association, a Fellow of the Centre for International Legal Studies, a Gerson Lehrman Educator, and a member of the Hellenic Procedural Law Association and the Hellenic Commercial Lawyers Association.

Born Athens, 1973.

Transactions & Advice

We approach transactional work and specialist advice with the proven hard methods we use for disputes.

Disputes test the resilience and expediency of non-dispute work. For this reason, we place the hard and disciplined methodologies behind our disputes practice at the heart of our transactional and advisory work. We aim to transgress encyclopaedic information on laws and regulations, or the mechanical replication of transactional trends, structures and forms.

We invest time and effort to achieve a deep understanding of our clients' specific business, markets and industries. We work programmatically to integrate into the guidance we provide the potential impact of factors seemingly extrinsic to a legal question or transaction, such as eventual disputes, conflicts of laws or the likelihood and potential impact of reforms, through the prism of the most critical or latest jurisprudence.
